

Headwinds:

Responding to Evolving Challenges in Advancing Equity

A free four-part series of candid conversations with BIPOC leaders working to advance educational equity amidst increasing resistance and backlash

JUL

25

2pm ET

Headwinds: Continuing to Advance Equity in Higher Education

Grounded in the understanding that our equity work will and must continue despite the recent SCOTUS decisions, we'll delve into strategies BIPOC leaders are leveraging to dismantle barriers, ensure increased and equitable access to higher education, and honor and protect the voices and identities of historically marginalized students.

Reserve My Spot

AUG

1

2pm ET

Headwinds: Philanthropy's Responsibility in Tumultuous Times

Learn how philanthropic organizations are helping mitigate the impact of the recent SCOTUS decisions by supporting innovative solutions and leveraging their resources to amplify equity efforts despite the increasing headwinds. Gain insights from BIPOC philanthropic leaders who are committed to transformative change and helping advance DEI and antiracist work in education.

Reserve My Spot

AUG

8

2pm ET

Headwinds: Localizing Strategies for Creative Maladjustment

How are BIPOC leaders tailoring language and approaches to side-step time and energy distractions from radical conservatives looking to shut down progress? Join us to explore how BIPOC-led, equity-centered organizations working across states and regions are navigating the dynamic tension between core organizational values and local contexts.

Reserve My Spot

AUG

15

2pm ET

Headwinds: Community and Self-Care as Continued Acts of Resistance

In this session, we will explore the importance of building community, catalyzing co-conspirators and allies, and prioritizing community and self-care as powerful acts of resistance in the face of growing opposition. Join us as we come together to share strategies for nurturing ourselves and holding space for each other in the midst of challenging headwinds.

Reserve My Spot